

Council Inauguration

Living in the Hills of Mulmur

The rolling hills, a sea of green
And farmers fields, mixed in between
A sunset sky, spread out across the land
And peaceful silence across the Mulmur sand
Out on the Main Tract, many friends walk the trail
As the leaves fall from the trees, creating a vale
Over at the Pub, friends and family meet
Everyone is welcome, just pull up a seat
A community separated by lots of land doesn't seem so big when we all need a hand Neighbours still help each other when in need
Working together, planting the friendship seed
Around the corner, driving down a winding street
Our Mayor and Council are getting ready to meet
Each with their own sense of style and wit,
Working together, at the table they sit
With coffee in hand, and hands at the ready their focus is intense, their gaze is steady
Business is at hand, Mulmur is their heart
All are quite eager and ready to start
Eyes are wide open, as they all share a grin
Our Mayor calls to order and the meeting begins
It's Better in Mulmur, I'm sure you'll agree
And our Council will lead us to be the best we can be
At the end of the day, and at the root of it all
Everyone loves Mulmur - Spring, Summer, Winter and Fall

By Ruth Rindinella